

Historic Phase Change Can Begin This Weekend

November 29, 2018—The stage has been set for an historic transformation in the coming days and weeks, be it for a descent into financial chaos and war, or the exact opposite, the initiation of a new paradigm bringing the nations of the world together in a commitment to the common aims of mankind. The British and their assets in the United States, centered in the Atlantic Council, are beating the war drums, falsely declaring that the Russians have carried out an act of war by detaining the Ukrainian war ships which intentionally breached treaty agreements by entering Russian sovereign territory, secretly, and refusing to respond to demands from Russian Border Police. They were just a short distance from the newly constructed Kretch Bridge connecting the Russian mainland to Crimea. Several leading figures in Ukraine have called for bombing the bridge, and the British born and educated Tom Rogan headlined an article in the Washington Examiner last May 15: "Ukraine should blow up Putin's Crimea bridge." Ukraine President Poroshenko has declared martial law in part of the country, allowing the government to commandeer workforces, conscript people into the military, mobilize military forces, conduct warrantless search and seizures, impose control over the media, and more.

President Putin said of the incident: "It was organized by the president [Poroshenko] ahead of the elections," which are scheduled for March 31, 2019. Putin noted that Poroshenko "is in fifth place, ratings-wise, and therefore had to do something. It was used as a pretext to introduce martial law."

The danger is that the crisis could be intentionally escalated with the purpose of provoking a war. The timing is obvious, as President Putin is scheduled to meet with President Trump just three days from now in Argentina, and the British are frantic to sabotage this "danger to the Empire," which a Trump-Putin agreement represents.

The Trump-Putin meeting has been carefully planned to fall after the midterm elections in the US, in which President Trump successfully mobilized the American people to place the Senate firmly in the hands of the President's supporters, assuring the failure of any impeachment attempt by the new McCarthyites. On Tuesday, a run-off election for the last open Senate seat in the country was won by the Republican candidate in Mississippi, Cindy Hyde-Smith, after Trump held two of his now-famous mass rallies in the state on Monday night.

Now, Trump is heading to Buenos Aires for the Nov. 30-Dec. 1 G20 summit, where he will hold separate meetings with President Putin, President Xi Jinping, President Moon Jae-in, President Shinzo Abe, Prime Minister Narendra Modi, and others. These leaders represent the nations which can, and must, unite behind the urgent necessity of addressing the massive financial bubble now beginning to explode across the western world. Returning to the Bretton Woods structure established by Franklin Roosevelt, ending the control over the western banking system by the speculative vulture funds, reversing the de-industrialization being imposed by the green fanatics who have seized power in most of the western nations, and launching global cooperation in driving ahead at the frontier of human knowledge through fusion power development and space exploration — all this is possible, and necessary, at this pregnant moment in history. The time is now for the LaRouche "Four Laws," and for the U.S. and the European nations to take their appropriate places as leading forces in the New Silk Road, conceived by Lyndon and Helga LaRouche, and unleashed under the leadership of China's Xi Jinping.

President Trump has repeatedly insisted that having good relations with Russia is "a good thing, not a bad thing," while for the past two weeks he and his leading economic adviser Larry Kudlow have been insisting that a deal with China to end the trade conflict, and putting relations back on track, is a highly possible outcome of the Nov. 30 Trump-Xi meeting. Both sides are reporting that serious and productive negotiations are taking place at multiple levels, and that both sides want to reach an agreement.

The Mueller witch hunt stands exposed and nearly destroyed, although Mueller is certain to do everything in his power, in service to MI6, to destroy the President of the United States. The exposure of the "Integrity Initiative" this past week, despite the near total black out in the western press, has demonstrated the role of the British in driving for war with Russia and China, while orchestrating the fraudulent Russiagate coup attempt against Trump.

The time is ripe for a new paradigm, if the patriots of all nations can at the same time act as citizens of the world, as Friedrich Schiller espoused. Or, as Helga has often said: "Nun kommt die Schillerzeit."
